THE NATIONAL STANDARD

The national standard will be used by the International Gambling Counselor Certification Board (IGCCB) to judge the competencies of any applicant who applies for national certification. If an applicant's competencies meet the standard, the board will grant the designation: National Certified Gambling Counselor-I (NCGC-I) or National Certified Gambling Counselor-II (NCGC-II) in the United States or International Certified Gambling Counselor-I (ICGC-I) or International Certified Gambling Counselor-II (ICGC-II) outside of the United States. Recognition of the certification is voluntary. The design of this certification system is one of quality control and assurance of clinical competency. Once achieved, this self-imposed monitoring system will make available a known and accepted level of performance by the certified counselor and consequently will encourage performance by the certified counselor and consequently will encourage recognition from other agencies.

THE STANDARD

The certification program for gambling counselors is based upon key elements of the counseling profession. The standard will be used to evaluate each applicant's qualifications. Individuals with the basic competencies to assume responsibility for counseling pathological gamblers, their families, and associates, regardless of program setting, will be eligible for certification. Gambling counseling is a service which should be rendered by those with adequate training and expertise. Such expertise will be determined through the certification process. Appropriate services will be rendered to persons with pathological or related gambling problems and to others affected by the disorder. Certification provides all practitioners with a marketable credential of comparable value but different from other credentials such as degrees, etc. It is most valuable in settings where experience is highly valued since it is based upon a standard used to judge competencies gained in a work setting in addition to training. It is not certification for a particular position, or a license to practice, although it may be accepted as an essential, preferred, or alternative credential by employers, state and local officials or accreditation bodies.

ORGANIZATIONAL GOALS OF CERTIFICATION

In order to assure a body of qualified and competent professionals working in the field of clinical treatment with pathological and problem gamblers and their families, the International Gambling Counselor Certification Board is proposing the following organizational goals to aid in the certification of gambling counselors nationally:

- To assure that Gambling Counselors nationally possess high standards of training, competence, skills and knowledge.
- To develop and operate a system of evaluation, screening, certification and a national registry for gambling counselors nationally and internationally.
- To assure that this certification and registry process is available to all interested applicants.
- To establish and endorse a professional code of ethics.
- To maintain coordination and liaison with state officials, professional associations and educational institutions to keep current developments in the field of gambling treatment, and to periodically review, modify, update and improve current standards of competence, skills and knowledge.
- To establish a central registry of certified gambling counselors and maintain all necessary records of applicants.

Certification and registry of gambling counselors internationally is a voluntary process conceived by professionals in both the treatment field and the professional community to endorse an independent body to conduct the certification and registration process.

The International Gambling Counselor Certification Board has members selected to represent various areas of the country as well as various professional disciplines.

CRITERIA FOR CERTIFICATION

The following is an outline of the requirements for certification as a National Certified Gambling counselor. More detailed information follows.

1. Bachelors degree or equivalent in the behavioral health field such as license or certification in a recognized behavioral health field (i.e. psychology, addictions, clinical social work)
2. 30 hours (NCGC-I) or 60 hours (NCGC-II) of gambling specific training and education
3. 100* hours (NCGC-I) or 2,000* hours (NCGC-II) clinical experience treating gamblers and/or family members in an approved setting with a minimum number of sessions with a International Gambling Counselor Board Approved Clinical Consultant (BACC)
4. Signed statements from two co-workers
5. Signed statement from on-site clinical supervisor
6. Signed statement from Board Approved Clinical Consultant. (BACC)
7. Signed application form, ethical statement form and directory authorization form
8. Passing score on Certification Examination for Gambling Counselors (www.ptcny.com/clients/IGCCB/)
9. Check, money order, or credit card payment in the amount of $185

* Please see NCGC-I/NCGC-II Criteria for “Clinical Experience” below

EDUCATION and TRAINING:

A minimum of 30 hours of approved gambling specific training or education must be completed with appropriate supporting documentation as defined by the IGCCB. As of April 3, 2007 the International Gambling Counselor Certification Board requires a Bachelors Degree or equivalent in behavioral health field (e.g. license or certificate in psychology, sociology, chemical dependency, counseling, social work, etc.) to meet the behavioral education requirement for certification. This will end and replace the previous requirement of 300 hours of education from a behavioral health field. All applications for national gambling counselor certification received after midnight of April 3, 2007, are subject to the new Bachelors Degree or equivalent requirements.

CLINICAL EXPERIENCE:

Minimum of 100 hours as a gambling counselor delivering direct treatment to problem/pathological gamblers and significant others, in a Board approved setting with a IGCCB approved clinical consultant (BACC). This can be fulfilled by 50% or 50 hours volunteer work experience, the balance being paid experience. The Board reserves the right to assign and review a 100 hour field work practicum to applicants who are not working under a IGCCB approved clinical consultant or an individual qualified (in experience and training) to supervise gambling counseling activities. See section A below for details.

1. NCGC-I Criteria for “Clinical Experience”

Minimum guidelines for approved supervision/consultation should include at least 4 one hour sessions. IGCCB clinical consultation maybe done in person, by phone, by email, or as arranged between supervisor and applicant. Applicant may present properly documented past clinical work with gamblers and their family members for consideration by the IGCCB approved clinical consultant, and if accepted by the BACC (Board approved clinical consultant) and the IGCCB, these hours may be credited toward the 100 experiential hours required for NCGC-I. These should include a minimum caseload as agreed to with the BACC. (Clinical Consultant guidelines will include reporting forms, case presentation guidelines, and suggested minimum caseloads).

National Certified Gambling Counselor –II

EDUCATION and TRAINING:

A minimum of 60 hours of approved gambling specific training or education must be completed with appropriate supporting documentation as defined by the IGCCB. As of April 3, 2007 the International Gambling Counselor Certification Board requires a Bachelors Degree or equivalent in behavioral health field (e.g. license or certificate in psychology, sociology, chemical dependency, counseling, social work, etc.) to meet the behavioral education requirement for certification. This will end and replace the previous requirement of 300 hours of education from a behavioral health field. All applications for national gambling counselor certification received after midnight of April 3, 2007, are subject to the new Bachelors Degree or equivalent requirements.

CLINICAL EXPERIENCE:

Minimum of 2,000 hours (or one year full time equivalent) as a gambling counselor delivering direct treatment to problem/pathological gamblers and significant others, in a Board approved setting with a IGCCB approved clinical consultant. This can be fulfilled by 50% or 1,000 hours volunteer work experience, the balance being paid experience. The Board reserves the right to assign and review a 2,000 hour field work practicum to applicants who are not working under a Board approved clinical consultant or an individual qualified (in experience and training) to supervise gambling counseling activities. See section B below for details.

2. NCGC-II Criteria for “Clinical Experience”

Minimum guidelines for approved supervision should include at least two one hour sessions per month for a minimum of 12 months (24 hrs.). IGCCB clinical consultation maybe done in person, by phone, by email, or as arranged between supervisor and applicant. Applicant may present properly documented past clinical work with gamblers and their family members for consideration by the IGCCB approved clinical consultant, and if accepted by the BACC (Board approved clinical consultant) and the IGCCB, these hours may be credited toward the 2,000 experiential hours required for NCGC-II. These should include a minimum caseload as agreed to with the BACC. (Clinical Consultant guidelines will include reporting forms, case presentation guidelines, and suggested minimum caseloads).

DEFINITIONS

CODE OF ETHICAL CONDUCT (A.2)

To be read and signed by the applicant

Please print or type

Applicant: _____

Principle 1: Non-Discrimination - The IGCCB shall affirm diversity and not discriminate against clients or professionals based on racial or ethnic background, religion/spiritual beliefs, age, gender, sexual orientation, marital status, political beliefs, treatment history, criminal justice history/status, or mental/physical disability and other cultural identities that are important to the client and:

1. Avoid bringing personal or professional issues into the counseling relationship and guard the individual rights and personal dignity of clients through an awareness of the impact of stereotyping and discrimination.
2. Strive to treat all individuals with impartiality and objectivity based solely on their personal merits and mindful of the dignity of all human persons. As such, I shall not impose my personal values on my clients.
3. Relate to all clients with empathy and understanding no matter what their diagnosis or personal history and with acceptance and openness regardless of treatment history or criminal justice status or background.
4. Respect the right of others to hold opinions, beliefs, and values different from my own.

Principle 2: Responsibility - The IGCCB shall espouse objectivity and integrity, and maintain the highest standards of service and:

1. Assist in educating and helping others acquire knowledge and skills in dealing with pathological and problem gambling.
2. Accept the obligation, when supervising others, to facilitate professional development of these individuals by providing accurate and current information, timely evaluations, and constructive consultation.
3. Understand that most property in the healing professions is intellectual property and shall not present the ideas or formulations of others as if they were my own. Rather, I shall give appropriate credit to their originators both in written and spoken communication.
4. Regard the use of any copyrighted material without permission or the payment of royalty to be theft.
5. Maintain respect for institutional policies and management functions of agencies and institutions within which the services are being performed, but will take initiative toward improving such policies when it will better serve the interest of the client.

Principle 3: Competence - The IGCCB shall recognize that the profession is founded on national standards of competency which promotes the best interests of society, the client, the counselor and of the profession as a whole. The IGCCB shall recognize the need for ongoing education as a component of professional competency and:

1. Recognize boundaries and limitations of competencies and not offer services or use techniques outside of my professional competencies.
2. Maintain competence in the area of my practice through continuing education, constantly improving my knowledge and skills in those approaches most effective with my specific clients.
3. Recognize the effect of impairment on professional performance and be willing to seek appropriate treatment for myself or for a colleague. I shall support peer assistance programs in this respect.

Principle 4: Legal and Moral Standards - The IGCCB shall uphold the legal and accepted moral codes which pertain to professional conduct; be aware of and follow those laws and regulations that are relevant both personally and professionally and:

1. Make every attempt to be fully cognizant of all federal and state laws that pertain to the practice of counseling problem gamblers and their families.
2. Not claim either directly or by implication, professional qualifications or affiliations that I do not possess.
3. Understand that the determination that a law or regulation is unjust is not a matter of preference or opinion but a matter of rational investigation, deliberation, and dispute.
4. Understand that justice extends beyond individual relationships to the community and society; therefore, I shall participate in activities that promote the health of my community and profession.

Principle 5: Client Welfare - The IGCCB understands that the primary professional responsibility and loyalty is to the welfare of the client and holds, as a primary guide, the client's best interests with regards to public health, safety, and welfare and:

5. Take all measures to safeguard the privacy and confidentiality of client information except where the client has given specific, written, informed and limited consent or when the client poses a risk to self or others.
6. Terminate counseling and consulting relationship when it is reasonably clear to the counselor that the client is not benefiting from the relationship.
7. Take care to provide services in an environment which will ensure the privacy and safety of the client at all times and ensures the appropriateness of service delivery and disclose the code of ethics, professional loyalties, and responsibilities to all clients.
8. Hold the welfare of the client paramount when making any decisions or recommendations concerning referral, treatment procedures or termination of treatment.
9. Not do for others what they can readily do for themselves but rather, facilitate and support the doing. Likewise, I shall not insist on doing what I perceive as good without reference to what the client perceives as good and necessary.

Principle 6: Client Relationship - The IGCCB shall be responsible to safeguard the integrity of the counseling relationship and respect the fundamental human right of all individuals to self-determination and to make decisions that they consider in their own best interest. The counselor shall be open and clear about the nature, extent, probable effectiveness, and cost of those services to allow each individual to make an informed decision of their care and:

10. Inform the client and obtain the client's agreement in areas likely to affect the client's participation including the recording of an interview, the use of interview material for training purposes, and/or observation of an interview by another person.
11. Not engage in professional relationships or commitments that conflict with family members, friends, close associates, or others whose welfare might be jeopardized by such a dual relationship.
12. Not exploit relationships with current or former clients for personal gain, including social or business relationships.
13. Not, under any circumstances, engage in sexual behavior with current or former clients and not accept as a client anyone with whom I have engaged in sexual behavior.
14. Because a relationship begins with a power differential, I shall not exploit relationships with current or former clients for personal gain, including social or business relationships.

15. Not accept substantial gifts from clients, other treatment organizations, or the providers of materials or services used in my practice.

Principle 7: Confidentiality - The IGCCB shall work in the best interest of the client and embrace the duty of protecting the client's rights under confidentiality and not disclose confidential information acquired in teaching, practice, or investigation without appropriately executed consent and:

1. Provide the client their rights regarding confidentiality, in writing, as part of informing the client in any areas likely to affect the client's confidentiality. This includes the recording of the clinical interview, the use of material for insurance purposes, and the use of material for training or observation by another party.
2. Make appropriate provisions for the maintenance of confidentiality and the ultimate disposition of confidential records. I shall ensure that the data obtained is necessary and appropriate to services being provided and secured by the available security methodology.
3. Adhere to all federal and state laws regarding confidentiality and the counselor's responsibility to report information in specific circumstances to the appropriate authorities.
4. Understand that the right of confidentiality cannot always be maintained if it serves to protect abuse, neglect, or exploitation of any person or leaves another at risk of bodily harm.
5. Use clinical and other material in teaching and/or writing only when there is no identifying information about the parties involved.

Principle 8: Remuneration - The IGCCB shall establish financial arrangements in professional practice and in accord with the standards that safeguards the best interests of the client, of the counselor and of the profession and:

1. Carefully consider the ability of the client to meet the financial cost in establishing rates for professional services.
2. Not send or receive any commission or rebate or any other form of remuneration for referral of clients for professional services nor will I engage in fee splitting.
3. Not use my personal relationship with clients to promote personal gain or profit of my agency or commercial enterprise of any kind.

Principle 9: Preventing Harm - The IGCCB understands that every decision and action has ethical implication leading either to benefit or harm, and shall carefully consider whether any decisions or actions has the potential to produce harm of a physical, psychological, financial, legal, or spiritual nature before implementing them and:

1. Refrain from using any methods that could be considered coercive such as threats, negative labeling, and attempts to provoke shame or humiliation.
2. Make no requests of clients that are not necessary as part of the agreed treatment plan.
3. Terminate the counseling or consulting relationship when it is reasonably clear that the client is not benefiting from the relationship.
4. Understand an obligation to protect individuals, institutions, and the profession from harm that might be done by others. Consequently, I am aware that the conduct of another individual is an actual or likely source of harm to clients, colleagues, institutions, or the profession, and that I have an ethical obligation to report such conduct to competent authorities.

Principle 10: Societal Obligations - The IGCCB shall advocate changes in public policy and legislation to afford opportunity and choice for all persons whose lives are impaired by pathological gambling and other forms of addiction and:
